ARRIVAL OF THE ROCHESTER REGIMENT.

The Rochester Regiment, Colonel PALMER, reached the city, by the Central Road, this morning, soon after 9 o'clock—having left Rochester last evening at 6 o'clock. The Regiment numbered 950 men—fifty or more being left behind. The following are the field officers of the Regiment:

O. H. Palmer, Colonel.
George B. Force, Major.
John T. Chumasco, Adjutant.
Joseph S. Harris, Quartermaster.
J. E. Whitbeck, Surgeon.
Dr. Arner, 1st Assistant Surgeon.
W. S. Ely, 2d Assistant Surgeon.
James Nichole, Chaplain.

The Lieutenant-Colonel is not yet named. It is hoped that an experienced army officer will be detached to take the position.

The Regiment took the Hudson R. R. cars, and proceeded to New York, where they will receive their arms and one of the Regimental Flags provided by the Governor for the first four regiments that shall take the field. This honor is to be awarded the Elmira, Albany, Rochester, and (probably) the Oswego Regiments.

A private in the German company of the Regiment was killed a few miles east of Rochester, by his head coming in contact with a bridge.

Death of a Soldier in the 108th.

EDITORS UNION:—The following letter from George A. Rowe to his parents destroys the last ray of earthly hope for our beloved brother, Lyman R. Potter, who was killed in the battle of Antietam on the 17th. He went as a matter of duty, full of hope that he should return again, but it was ordered otherwise. Feeling that it would be a consolation to his numerous friends to know that his remains were properly cared for, with permission I submit the following letter for publication:

Yours, E. M. POTTER.
BATTLE FIELD, Near Sharpsburg,
Sept. 19, 1862.

DEAR FRIENDS AT HOME:—Through the providence of God Beecher (G. B. Sperry) and myself are yet alive and well. We have been preserved, while our friends, those that were near and dear, are gone. You doubtless will have heard of the great battle of Wednesday, in which the 108th was engaged, and have seen the list of killed and wounded. Among those killed you will see the name of our dear friend Potter. He was the first in our company (Co. B) to fall, and surely no one was better prepared. Often have I heard him sing that verse, "Die on the Field of Battle," and when I saw him fall I could but sing it too. We could not recover the body until yesterday, when Dr. Ely and Marquis French went for it, and we dug a grave and buried him beneath a black walnut tree. His initials are marked on the tree, and his remains may be removed in cooler weather. Lieutenant Tarbox, Barney Hamiel, James Monroe and William Lee are among the killed in our company. Our Captain was not with us, he being sick at Camp Palmer. He rejoined us this morning. He brings the mail with him, but we have not received it yet, it being left in the wagons. We are still on the battle field, but in no immediate danger. Our trust is in the God of Battles and he will protect us. We have no clothing except what we had on our backs when we left camp. Have been out thirteen days and no change of shirts yet. But I must close by sending love to you all, hoping and trusting that you will pray that God will protect us. Tell friends that they must excuse us from writing as we have no paper or envelopes with us, having left everything at camp. (This letter was written on two leaves of a diary.) I wish you would send me another Testament.

Your affectionate son and brother,
E. M. POTTER.

We are all sad at the loss of Lyman R. Potter.

From the One Hundred and Eighth Regiment.

The following is a private letter from a member of the 108th Regiment, to a relative in this city:

SHARPSBURG, Md., Sept. 20 h, 1862.

DEAR COUSIN:—I am very sorry that I have not been able to write to you before, and let you know something of my condition and whereabouts. We left Camp Palmer a week ago last Sunday, and marched nine days in succession.—Our route lay through Rockyville, Clarksburg, Frederick and Boonsville. We were in the battle on Wednesday, and a terrible one it was, I can tell you. Our regiment suffered severely, losing a great many in killed and wounded, a great number of whom were officers. It was hard to see the boys lying around on the ground, some with arms, others with legs shot off; but it was harder yet to hear the poor fellows groan. Among the killed, I regret to say, were Major George B. Force and Lieutenant D. B. Tarbox.

But though the regiment suffered badly, it fought well. It was in the thickest of the fight, and took one hundred and thirty prisoners and three standards of colors. The day after the battle we were ordered out on picket duty, when we had a picket skirmish with the rebels, and drove them, of course.

I have not time at present to give you any further particulars of the battle, but will do so the next time I write, which will be as soon as possible. It is the impression here that we have given the rebels a pretty good drubbing this time. For myself, I consider that I have been very fortunate indeed, for though I was in the hottest of the fight I did not get even a scratch.

We have not received any mail since we left camp, and consequently have heard very little recently from our friends at home. When we set out on our march we supposed that we would not be gone more than two or three days, and so did not take out knapsacks with us. Accordingly, we are at present without that very necessary article, and it is more necessary contents, and what is worse are likely to be so until we go into winter quarters. Those who are expecting to hear from friends in the regiment, would do well to send them something to write on—writing paper, envelopes, and some of your surplus postage stamps, all of which are very scarce here. But I must close here, though I have not said one twentieth part of what I wanted to. Give my love to all the folks, and have them write soon. Hoping that you will excuse the shortness of this letter, and promising to write a longer one next time, I remain your affectionate cousin.

HARRY BABONE.

—A letter from E. B. Beck, sier in Co. E, to his brother in this city, says that Mel. Force was shot in the breast. He gives some other facts, most of which are mentioned in the letter of Col. Palmer to Judge Chumaseo, and his official report to Col. Morris, published elsewhere.

The One Hundred and Eighth in Battle!

Colonel Palmer's Official Report.

Complete List of Killed, Wounded and Missing.

We are indebted to Judge CHUMASEO for the following very interesting intelligence from the 108th regiment:

LETTER FROM COL. PALMER.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE 108th REG'T. N. Y. V.
SHARPSBURG, SEPT. 20, 1863.

Hon. John C. Chumaseo, Chairman Military Committee, Monroe County:

MY DEAR SIR,—The battle of Sharpsburg which took place on the 17th, and in which the 108th Regiment participated, was a terrific one, and a great victory. It is my painful duty to transmit to you a statement in detail of the casualties of the 108th, that facts instead of rumours and surmises may be presented to the friends of the Regiment at home.

I also enclose to you a copy of my official report to Col. Dwight Morris, who was in command of the Brigade, giving a general history of the acts of the 108th in that engagement. This together with the statement in detail will give you about as correct a general history of the fight as you will be likely to obtain. I mean so far as my command was concerned.

With few exceptions, my men who went in fought like tigers. You may say to the friends of those who have suffered, that the conduct of the Regiment was heroic, that eternal praise is due to the memory of the dead, and that those who bear scars, can wear them through life as badges of the highest honor that the earth can bestow.

You can make such use of the report and statement as you deem proper.

I have the honor to be,

Respectfully Your obt' serv't

O. H. PALMER.

COL. PALMER'S OFFICIAL REPORT.

HEADQUARTERS 108TH REG. N. Y. V.
Near SHARPSBURG, Md., Sept. 19, 1863
To Col. D. Morris, Commanding 2d Brigade
Gen. French's Division:

I have the honor to report that on the 17th inst. my command left Camp, near Keetysville, about 8 o'clock in the morning, and after marching about two miles, having formed into line of battle, entered into action on the crest of the hill and on the left of the Brigade, in the front line of battle, in front of the cornfield and rifle-pits occupied by the rebels. The action commenced about 7½ o'clock in the morning. My command remained in line and continued in position—firing with great rapidity and energy in the face of a deadly fire of the enemy, who were stationed in the cornfield and rifle-pits, not more than twenty or thirty rods distant, until about half-past 12 o'clock in the afternoon.

During the action a charge was made upon the rifle pits, and my command took 159 rebel privates and non-commissioned officers, three rebel captains and six rebel lieutenants, also one stand of Reg't Colors of the 14th North Carolina Reg't. These colors were taken by Henry Niter, in Co. K, of this Reg't., but after taking the colors some officer of another Reg't. told him to give them up, stating that if he carried them he might be fired into by our own men, not knowing any better, he handed them to such officer. The prisoners were taken under guard by Capt. E. P. Fuller, Co. H, of my Reg't., and delivered to an officer of the 8th Ill. Cavalry, guarding at Boonsboro, Md., and a receipt taken, which has been delivered to Col. French.—The prisoners were so taken and delivered by direction of an Aid-de-Camp of Gen. Sumner. My command also took 29 rebel non-commissioned officers and one lieutenant, prisoners, who were placed under guard at the hospital by Lieut. Merrill of Co. A, and Lieut. Cox, of Co. C, and who were subsequently sent to Boonsboro.

At about half past 12 P. M., of the 17th, my command was relieved for a time by the Irish Brigade, by order of Gen. Richardson. It was then ordered to fall back about 100 rods, it did so and was then re-formed upon the colors, but I was only able then to collect about 100 men. I was then ordered by Gen. Richardson to again march into line to the front to fill a gap in the line of battle farther to the left, and in Gen. Richardson's Division, and my command was marched there accordingly and remained there under a severe fire from the enemies batteries until the close of the action at dark. By order of Gen. Hancock my command was then placed on the front line of pickets to do picket duty and remained in that position until 9 o'clock on the morning of the 18th, and until relieved by order of Gen. French. During this picket duty one prisoner was taken by a private in Co. B, and delivered to Gen. Caldwell.

During the action my officers and men, with few exceptions, conducted themselves with gratifying coolness and bravery. My loss have been severe and I regret to report that early in the action my Major, Geo. B. Force, was instantly killed, while in the fearless discharge of his duty. Lieut. D. B. Tarbox, of Co. B, and Lieut. R. F. Holmes, of Co. G, were also killed while leading their commands in action. Lieut. W. W. Bloss, of Co. A, bravely took the colors and while advancing in the face of the enemy, was severely wounded. Lieutenant Porter of Co. F, was shot through the foot while bravely discharging his duty. Twenty-three privates were killed, and one hundred and twenty-two non-commissioned officers and privates were wounded. Forty-seven privates are missing, whether killed or wounded I am unable to report. My total loss in killed, wounded, and missing is 195.

I have the honor to be,

Very respectfully,

Your obedient servant,

O. H. PALMER,

Colonel, 108th Regiment, N. Y. V.

From the One Hundred and Eighth.

CAMP PALMER, VIRGINIA, }
August 30th, 1862. }

This is a day of excitement in this section— an almost incessant roar of cannon is heard in camp, and the sky is lurid with the smoke from the battle field. We learn from a messenger from the scene of strife, that the fighting is about twenty miles from us, near Manassas.— Stonewall Jackson is probably making a desperate struggle. In a speech to his troops on Wednesday last, he told them the Confederacy was ruined if the rebel army should be whipped now.

Although our regiment is in close approximation to the rebels, the men with but few exceptions feel as much at home as if they were in Rochester. No fear is manifest, and the desire is to have an opportunity to pick a rebel off.— The health of the regiment is excellent. Slight cases of dysentery occur, but it is soon checked by our Surgeon, Dr. Whitbeck, whose care and attention to the welfare of the men is constant. The regiment is fortunate in having the services of such an able physician. The Quartermaster's Department is not in smooth order yet, owing to the immense pressure for supplies for the thousands of men that are arriving night and day in Washington. The men are satisfied, and enjoy themselves. Turn the eye in any direction and a sea of tents is visible on every hand. A great number of Rochester people connected with other regiments, &c, have made us visits, and the men feel as if they were "at home again." A great drouth has prevailed throughout this section, and almost all herbage has a crisped appearance.

The regiment has come down to real work in drilling. We wake at daybreak, turn out to roll call, and drill till seven o'clock. Breakfast is then served. To witness the "Knights of the Blue Jacket," with their pint cups of coffee and tin plates of rice or beans, sitting in their tents a la taylor, is ludicrous. At 10 o'clock battalion drill is had. At 3 o'clock P. M., we are in the field again, and thorough instruction for two hours is given. Evening dress parade is had about dusk, which concludes the labors of the day, and then each man whiles away his time as he may choose until "lapse," which takes place at half past 9 o'clock. Lights are extinguished at 10 o'clock. Fifty men are detailed each night from the regiment for picket duty, whose circuit extends some five miles from camp. The drilling of the regiment is conducted by Major Force, whose discipline is effective and thorough. None of the men are allowed to visit Washington, and the sale of liquor is strictly prohibited in the camp.

Large numbers of prisoners from the rebels have been brought in within two days past.— Yesterday the noted spy of the White Horse was among a batch of such game. He is a tall, gaunt appearing specimen of chivalry. To day 20,000 of Gen. McClellan's forces passed in view of our camp to the aid of Gen. Pope. They were decidedly a tanned set of men in appearance, being a portion of the forces from Harrison's Landing. If it were not for the straps upon the officers' shoulders, it would be difficult to distinguish them from the privates.— They marched on with alacrity, the booming of the cannon creating an eagerness with them to be in the contest. Rumors of the near approach of the rebels to us have prevailed for a week past, and orders require each man to sleep with clothing and boots on, ready at a moment's warning for whatever emergency may arise.— We have as yet no Lieutenant Colonel. Capt. Williams and company left camp Thursday night for Falls Church, where they remain up to the present writing.

The firing appears to advance and recede, and is very heavy. An officer who has been engaged in several of the heaviest battles of the present war stated that the cannonading to-day was the most constant and heaviest that he ever heard. The clouds of smoke were plainly visible from our camp. At Falls Church continued volleys of musketry were heard all day long. Numerous rumors as to the result of the fight prevail in camp. As the telegraph will post you as to the result, I will not narrate rumors.

SUNDAY MORNING, August 31.

This is a dark, rainy morning. You have heard of Virginia mud from those who have waded in it heretofore. It is not only over boots, but its adhesive tendency is superior to Spaulding's Glue. An order for double quick time would be considerably impeded by mud clogs. The men lay on upon their arms last night ready for the long roll if necessary, but no foe appeared, and the camp is quiet. All are anxious to hear the result of the fight. Thousands of men, infantry, cavalry and artillery belonging to McClellan's army, have passed our camp during the night and are still moving onward.

The Rochester papers are eagerly sought for by the men.

As an evidence of the spirit that predominated with the well tried soldiers of McClellan as they were marching along yesterday, while the cannon were roaring, they were elated, and many of them exclaimed, "Now we have got old Stonewall where we want him." "Push on, boys, we have worked a great while for this chance," and they did push ahead, eager for the fray. Such a spirit manifested by veterans in the service inspires us to do like wise.

Perhaps it may be an item of information to state that a boy accompanied the regiment from Rochester, and is with us here. He says his name is Thomas Peet, that he is fourteen years old, and has no parents, that he lived with some people near Mt. Hope, and they do not know that he is with the regiment.

There are a number of men from the Peninsula army who are worn out by the fatigues they have endured, who are following on after their regiments as fast as strength will permit. Their perseverance is unyielding, and they move onward with zeal and courage worthy noble patriots.

TRUMAN.

PERSONAL.—Col. C. J. Powers, of the 108th N. Y. V., arrived here this morning, having been quite ill and still suffering. Not having seen the Colonel we are not advised by him as to the location and condition of the regiment. We hear, however, that it is somewhere in Western Maryland, detached from the army of the Potomac doing guard duty. It is said that the regiment has now only about one hundred men able to perform duty. It has lost by battle and disease from time to time till there is now scarcely more than sufficient men for a company.

The wife and daughter of Capt. Fellman, of the 108th regiment, left for Gettysburg yesterday to attend upon him. He has lost a leg but is said to be getting along very well.

FUNERAL OF A SOLDIER.—The funeral of Corporal William Fairchild, of Co. D, 108th Regiment, and son of Mr. A. H. Fairchild, was attended at North Bloomfield, where his father resides, on Monday the 20th inst. He was an excellent young man, and had always sustained an unblemished character, both at home and in the army. He was killed at Gettysburg, instantly, by a ball passing through his head, and within a few yards of Gen. Meade's headquarters. His body was brought home, and, after the services at the church, was borne to the grave, covered by the flag under which he had so honorably served, by a company of soldiers from his own and other regiments. A very large assembly were present to sympathize with the family, and to show their appreciation for the cause in which he fell.

DEATH OF LIEUT. MCGRAW.—Information has been received that Lieut. McGraw of the 108th Regiment, wounded in the Gettysburg battle, is dead. He suffered amputation of a leg. Due notice of the arrival of his remains here will be given.

PROMOTED.—Assistant Surgeon W. S. Ely, of the 108th Regiment N. Y. V., (son of Dr. Ely, of this city,) has received from the President the appointment of Assistant Surgeon U. S. Volunteers. The position is an important one, and only granted to such as pass a very rigid examination. The fact that Surgeon Ely has secured it, upon merit alone, is highly creditable, and will be gratifying to his many friends, in this vicinity. He has performed excellent field service in the 108th for over a year, and we congratulate him upon his deserved promotion.

RESIGNED.—Major H. S. Hogeboom, of the 108th regiment, who tendered his resignation some time since on account of ill health, has received notice of the acceptance of the same and has been honorably discharged.

ON DETACHED SERVICE.—Captains Andrews and Cramer and Lieut. Ostrander, and six privates of the 108th Regiment, have been detailed for special service in connection with the draft, and arrived in Rochester last evening. They are to report at Elmira in a few days, where they will receive instructions. The privates are Timothy Harrington, Elexis Wager, Hugh Craig, Chester Harris, Wilson and Rummel. The gallant 108th is reduced to 115 effective members. The boys are impatient to have their ranks refilled by the conscription.

THE CHRISTIAN COMMISSION AND THE 108TH REGIMENT.—We have received from the 108th Regiment the following resolutions with a request to publish:

CAMP OF THE 108TH N. Y. VOLS.,
NEAR MORTON'S FORD, VA.,
February 24.

At a meeting of the officers and men of this regiment the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Whereas, The Christian Commission has kindly presented this regiment with a library, chapel tent and stove, and also shown us many other acts of kindness, we, the officers and men of the 108th Regiment, N. Y. V., deem it most suitable that we make some expression of thanks. Therefore,

Resolved, That to the U. S. Christian Commission to the Army are due our most sincere thanks, which we do hereby express; that among our recollections of this war the noble philanthropy of this truly Christian Society deserves a foremost place; that we regard its work as christianity in practice, exhibiting the very spirit of the Gospel in ministering with tender sympathy to both the body and soul of those who need such ministrations.

Resolved, That from our experience of the good done by the Christian Commission, we regard it a most generous, conscientious, and sympathizing medium of communicating to the necessities of the soldier in the field, and as such do commend it to the confidence and support of the benevolent.

Resolved, That we cause these resolutions to be published in the daily papers of the city of Rochester, N. Y., and in the Home Journal; also, that we send a copy to George H. Stuart, Chairman of the Commission, to whom we are indebted for especial favor, and whom we regard as the most worthy head of a most noble philanthropy.

Lieut. CHAS. B. AYERS,
SURGEON O. MUNSON,
Lieut. SAM'L PORTER,
Lieut. CYRUS O. WICKES,
Lieut. JOHN B. KENNEDY,
Lieut. F. C. KAVANAUGH,
SERGEANT O. CHILSON.

A Deserved Promotion.—Among the many of our brave officers, who have figured in this war, none are more worthy than Lieut. P. C. Kavanagh, of the 108th N. Y. V. Lieut. K. went into the service at the organization of the 108th as 2d Lieutenant of Capt. Deverell's company. He was afterwards promoted to 1st Lieutenant; and now we take pleasure in noting the fact that he has received a Captain's commission, dating back to June 1st, 1863, for deserving conduct on the field. The gallant Captain has many friends in this city to salute him.

A PATRIOTIC FAMILY.—The death of the youngest son of the Rev. J. W. Spoor of this city, in the army of the Potomac, was announced at the time in this paper. Another son at the time was a member of Reynolds' battery, and is now in the field; another son joined the 108th that recently left this city and still another:—all that is left, of a suitable age—has joined the 130th regiment now in camp at Portage, and the father of these sons holds himself ready to go, when the opportunity shall be offered him for the performance of those duties, for which, as a minister of Jesus Christ, he is peculiarly fitted.

Lieut. O. O. Wickes, of the 108th regiment, wounded at Gettysburg, is also here. He goes back to his regiment on Monday.

WELL REPRESENTED.—Capt. Gaucho, one of the drafted men who had previously "done the state some service" as a member of the 108th Regiment, yesterday obtained a substitute in the person of an old soldier who passed through the Crimean war, and was but lately discharged from military service. His price was $375, and he got it.

MILITARY FUNERALS.—The funeral services upon the remains of Lieut. Dayton T. Card, Robert Evans and Amiet, of the 108th Regiment, were held yesterday. The obsequies of Lieut. Card and Evans took place, jointly, at the First Baptist Church, Profs. Northrop and Hotchkiss officiating. The Light Guard and Dragoons, with Perkins' Band, acted as escort. The Benevolent Society to which Lieut. Evans belonged was also in the procession, the members wearing crape on their arms as a token of respect. The ceremonies were very impressive and were witnessed by a large concourse of people. The remains were deposited in the receiving vault and the customary salute fired.

The funeral of Lieut. Amiet was attended by the Union Guard and Turnverein, who marched to the grave and paid the usual honors.

From the 108th Regiment.

A private letter from the 108th, dated Fairfax Court House, June 19th, (Friday last) gives some interesting information respecting the movements of the regiment. The march was begun on Sunday night and continued until Thursday night, when Fairfax was reached. The boys did not expect to tarry long there, and were ready to move on. Guerillas followed the retiring army, picking off stragglers. "Several of our boys have been shot," says the writer, "but Co. F has not lost a man yet, and all feel first rate." A rebel farmer on the route of the army, was saucy to the boys, evincing his sympathies for the enemy. The troops were in no mood for such exhibitions of treason, and punished the man severely by destroying his property. This is not the way to punish traitors. They should suffer in their persons rather than their property. To burn houses and barns injures many besides the traiting rebel.

At a meeting of Company F., 108th N. Y. V., on hearing of the death of Capt. Byron P. Thrasher, the following resolutions were unan-ly adopted:

Whereas, Our Captain Byron P. Thrasher, wounded at Chancellorsville, has in the providence of God been removed from us by death, and

Whereas, We as a company are called upon to consign to the tomb one whom we have learned to honor as a brave and gallant officer, therefore

Resolved, That while we lament the loss of our noble leader, who was fearless in the discharge of duty, cheerful amid privations, uniting the graces of a gentleman with the virtues of a soldier, we bow in submission to the mysterious will of heaven, and while cherishing his memory we will emulate his example in the hope that we may rejoin him in another and a better world.

Resolved, That while we deeply sympathize with his bereaved and stricken family who are thus early called upon to part with a loved husband and father, we pray that He "who doeth all things well" will grant them the consolation of His grace; that in this trial they may recognize His hand who is "too wise to err—too good to be unkind."

Resolved, That we wear the usual badge of mourning for thirty days, and that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to his family, also that they be published in the daily papers of Rochester.

THE MISSING OF THE 108TH REGIMENT.—

From a letter received here on Saturday, we learn that the majority of the men missing from the 108th Regiment, after the battle of Gettysburg, have returned to the regiment, and are now with it in pursuit of the enemy. Few, if any, were taken prisoners by the rebels.

DUEL IN THE 108TH (ROCHESTER) REGIMENT.—A Tribune correspondent says:

It is not often that we have to chronicle duels here. A one-sided affair of the kind came off yesterday morning at six o'clock in French's Division, 2d Corps. On the night previous Capt. Fuller of the 108th New York became somewhat elated by whisky and slapped the face of Lieut. Porter of the same regiment. The latter challenged him, and was on the ground with a pistol and second at the appointed hour. Fuller also appeared, but stated that he was unable either to borrow a pistol or procure a second. "That need not interfere," said Porter; "we will toss up for the first fire. You, being the challenged party, may select the number of paces." The tossing ensued and Fuller won. He then chose four paces. "It will be nothing less than murder," said Porter, "but never mind, blaze away."—Inserting his hands in his pockets, he then quietly faced his antagonist. Fuller fired on one side into the ground, and there the matter ended."

GENERAL.—Capt. Cramer, of the 108th, with a detachment of soldiers to attend to the distribution of drafted men, arrived at Elmira last evening.

Capt. Andrews, of the 108th regiment, also, arrived in this city last evening.

DEATHS

FUNERAL OF A SOLDIER.—The funeral services of Fred. Bistow, late of Co. I, 108th Regiment, took place yesterday. The Turnverein, of which deceased was a distinguished member, and the Union Guards, gave escort to the remains.

DEATH OF A GALLANT SOLDIER.—Frank A. Welsher, of Co. A, 108th Regiment, died a few days since in hospital on the Rappahannock. Deceased was from the town of Webster, and had proved himself a brave and faithful soldier. At the battle of Antietam he fought with great coolness and constancy, and when the regiment was finally rallied, scarcely two hundred men remaining, Welsher was still at his post, and fell, severely wounded. He returned home on furlough, recovered, and then went back to participate, with characteristic bravery, in subsequent engagements. After the battle of Frederickburg No. 2 he was seized with a fatal illness. His father started to visit him, but before he reached his destination, the spirit of the gallant boy had departed. His memory will be long and tenderly cherished by his brave companions-in-arms.

Yesterday the remains of deceased and of Charles E. Moore, arrived in this city via the New York and Erie Railway. The remains of the latter were consigned to the care of Alfred G. Mudge. His friends belong in Fairport.

Base Ball in the Army—From the 108th.

CAMP OF 108TH N. Y. V., MORTON'S FORD, RAPIDAN RIVER, March 19, 1863.

MR. EDITOR:—A pleasant affair came off here on the 17th. The line officers challenged the privates to play a match game of Base Ball, to be played on our parade ground, which, by the way, is within sight of the battle field of Morton's Ford. The game was somewhat different from the one played at the Ford a few weeks ago, between Jonathan and Jeff. Although two of the officers were wounded, I fancy neither of them will have to go to the hospital. A week's rest will bring them around all right.

You will perceive that when officers associate with the privates in such a manner, the best feeling must prevail between them. Col Powers kindly consented to be our umpire for the occasion, but he being officer of the day, we were obliged to appoint another, Mr. James Plunket, of company D, whose decisions were agreeable to both officers and men. The following is the score:

	O.	R.		O.	R.
Lieut. Cavanaugh, p.	2	1	Dickson, p.	1	4
" Parker, c.	2	1	Cunningham, 3d b.	2	3
" Ayers, 1st b.	1	1	McManis, r. f.	3	2
" Wells, s. s.	2	1	Ryan, l. f.	4	1
" Wicks, 3d b.	3	0	Barrey, 2d b.	2	1

" Parsons, r. f.	2	1	Haly, c.	1	3

" Lecke, c. f.	3	0	Edwards, 1st b.	2	1
Total	8	8	Total	19	19

Home runs were made by Dickson and Vaughan.

Yesterday, March 18th, we played a match game between the 14th Conn. Vols. and 10th N. Y. Vols., against our regiment. I will not worry you with the score of the game, but merely give you a summary of the game: 14th Conn. and 10th N. Y. score, 8; 108th N. Y. 34. Yours,

G. W. V.

LOCAL MATTERS.

The Casualties--A Sad Record--Colonel O'Rourke's Fall--The Killed and Wounded of the 108th and 140th.

The reports from the Battle Field of Pennsylvania are coming in, bringing the sad tidings that will carry pain to many an anxious heart, and at the same time afford relief to those who are in suspense and who do not see the names of their friends in the records of the bloody field. The New York papers contain lists of the killed and wounded, from which we extract below.

It is with sorrow that we are compelled to give full credit to the report we published yesterday of the death of Col. O'Rourke, of the 140th. His friends last night clung to the hope that as no tidings had been sent directly to them, that he was still living. The statements as to his fall are too minute to admit a doubt of their correctness.

The New York Herald's correspondent says:

Col. O'Rourke fell at the head of his column, while holding and waving the colors of his regiment. Scores of officers fell, and almost invariably in advance of their command. I have not heard of an officer who failed in his duty, and it was this that kept the men so firm and steadfast.

The Herald adds truly:

Few men have made a more brilliant reputation in this affair than Col. O'Rourke, One Hundred and Fortieth New York. Mounted on a rock, he was cheering on his men when a bullet struck him. He knew no fear; his fearlessness made him rash. It was so at the reduction of Fort Fulaaki, where he behaved with a gallantry known to everybody. It has been so in every engagement in which he participated. Like many of our officers lost in the present battle, Col. O'Rourke was a young man, being only twenty-five years old. He graduated at West Point in 1861, standing first in his class. A good portion of the last year he commanded a brigade in the division of regulars. He possessed military talent of a high order, and was eminently prepossessing and courteous to a fault. He had indeed all those shining qualities of heart and intellect that so richly adorn a man, and vouchsafe place, power and love to their possessor.

MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

A letter from the Potomac Army states that Captain Fuller of the 108th New York, became somewhat elated by whiskey, and slapped the face of Lieut. Porter of the same Regiment.—The latter challenged him, and was on the ground with a pistol and second at the appointed hour. Fuller also appeared, but stated that he was unable either to borrow a pistol or procure a second. "That need not interfere," said Porter, "we will toss up for the first fire. You, being the challenged party, may select the number of paces." The tossing ensued, and Fuller won. He then chose four paces.—"It will be nothing less than murder," said Porter, "but never mind, blaze away." Inserting his hands in his pockets, he then quietly faced his antagonist. Fuller fired on one side into the ground, and the matter ended.
